

W and W plastering.

I have been using the services of W and W plastering for in excess of 15 years on a regular basis.

Their plastering, screeding, coving and cornice work is exceptional and they have an extremely competent skilled workforce. This, backed up with years of knowledge and not afraid to try out new materials or techniques given the correct set of circumstances etc makes for a very meticulous and accomplished business.

Danny and Tony have very good communication skills and this is reflected and passed onto their employees/sub contractors.

The entire workforce has a great work ethic and wants to produce the best they can on each job. They are thoughtful and considerate of not only other trades but most importantly the customer. All the lads are friendly, sociable and extremely polite and can be accommodating to each circumstance that that particular job entails.

I have not felt the need to go to any other plastering contractor since I have started using their services, I myself aim for an extremely high standard of work every time and feel that this company is able to deliver this high standard every time.

They have also carried out the plastering and screeding on two award winning projects – both in Barton le Clay.

I have every intension of using their services until I retire from the business and I would urge anyone else to consider using their services.
